Peter has a twin: the shadow.

They “came into the light” together. They grew up together. They played together. Peter would move the shadow around and the shadow would always come up with wonderful ideas for him.

Then Peter grew up up, did all the things adults do, had no longer time to play. The whole time the shadow stood there, right behind him, waiting to be looked at again.

Until one day, they parted ... and

On stage, an actor and his shadow on a white background who play and interact creating numerous characters and imaginary worlds.

A dreamlike, poetic and ironic visual language that speaks to all ages with the magical language of shadows.
